ISSUE 33 TERM 4 WEEK 8

Creating & Learning at Quandialla Public School

Learning about Measurement.

Making Christmas decorations to hang on our trees.

Principal's Report

There is lots of action at the school at the moment, with the installation of new reverse cycle air-conditioning in all the learning spaces in the school. When Summer finally comes, we will be nice and cool! We have also had a new phone system installed.

A P&C Meeting will be held next Thursday, 2nd December, at 3:30. We will be discussing a day excursion at the end of this term, presentation day and the canteen. Please come along and join the discussion.

Disappointingly, we have had people entering the school grounds after hours, the police are aware and will be increasing patrols in the school and around Quandialla. No member of the public, including students, should be on school grounds after hours unless they have permission.

A Presentation Day will be held this year on Tuesday 14th December. The event, like last year, will look a little different to our usual Presentation Days. More information will be given as the time gets closer.

A reminder that anyone who enters the school grounds for any reason must be fully vaccinated. Please be ready and willing to show your vaccination status when entering the school.

Harvest

The header's out, the farmer's gone,
It was out before the break of dawn.

The farmer drives past the hay,
He is ready for a productive day.

He's in the crop of golden wheat,
The black gold is nearly complete.
Clouds come over, it begins to rain,
In his guts he feels a sharp pain.

The header is bogged in deep mud,
The precious crop is in a flood.
So much hard work. He's furious,
Will the rain cease? He's curious.

The big bright sun is peaking out,
So the farmer let's out a glorious shout.
The sky is blue, crystal clear,
The farmer earnt a refreshing beer.

CAMPAIGN LAUNCH – LHAC RECRUITMENT DRIVE

Applications have opened for the 2022 intake of volunteers to join the Local Health Advisory Committees across the Murrumbidgee District.

LHAC members come from all walks of life and have varying interests, but what unites them is that they are strong and vocal advocates who have their community's best interest at heart. Their opinions, concerns and ideas about what matters most to local people contributes enormously to health service planning and sustainability.

LHAC members share a desire to ensure successful and sustained health services that will meet the future needs of people in their region.

"It's really important that LHAC volunteers have a wide and varied range of interest that they bring to the table," said MLHD Community Engagement Manager Setchen Brimson. "We are particularly looking for people who are well connected in their local area and can speak with people from all different backgrounds to get a real sense of what's going on in their community, and where the needs and gaps are."

"What's most important is that LHAC members can give consumers in their region a voice that is heard, and they can play a pivotal role in informing health providers in making changes to future services."

There are 33 LHAC across the Murrumbidgee region, stretching from the Snowy Mountains in the east to the plains of Hillston in the northwest and all the way along the Victorian border. Each LHAC plays a role in helping to inform decisions that are made in primary and acute care by advocating for health consumers in their area.

LHAC members meet once monthly and consist of around seven community members, a clinical representative and a staff representative from MLHD. The committees are supported by the Murrumbidgee Local Health District (MLHD) and the Murrumbidgee Primary Health Network (MPHN) and are provided with funding opportunities to work on projects which align to the strategic direction of both organisations.

LHACs work with the MPHN in areas such as understanding the primary care needs of people in their region. They participate in health needs analysis, community led planning, conversations on the couch and other co-design opportunities to ensure that community interested and concerns are taken into consideration when planning to provide service delivery.
